MONSOON

A CHRISTMAS EXHIBITION

19 November – 11 December

The conclusion of another strange year is almost upon us. Summer is suddenly looking a little more hopeful. We are celebrating the end of the year with a stunning exhibition by a selection of exciting artists. The title Monsoon is obviously a shout from the north, but it also represents a show of force. Powerhouse art centres Martumili Artists, Kaltiti Arts and Papunya Tula Artists will show alongside the works of Bryan Bulley, Max Bowden, Cecily Willis, Danny Murphy, Thom Buchanan and Geoff Todd. Our first exhibition for 2022 is the exceptional Nyangulya Katie Nalgood - so put 14/01/2022 in your calendar now. Happy Christmas everyone and here's hoping for a cracking 2022!

Minyma Mamu Imma

As the woman walks through the burnt country, she becomes covered in white ash jumping about on hot coals with a large bright red mouth yelping in pain and scaring everyone - like a monster woman. The head decoration changes each time she dances.

The dance of the Monster Woman enacts the journey of the Minyma following her husband's tracks towards Wataru in the west of the Anangu Pitjantjatjara/ Yankunytjatjara Lands.

As she was walking along she picked up a stick and was dancing as she went. She took the wrong track and was in the path of a big bushfire - Waru pulka pitjanangka. A big bushfire was coming towards her.

"Panya palunya kampangi warungku tjina munu mara, kuru puntu winki.

She was walking over hot coals - tjikani. Burning embers struck her hands, eyes, in her mouth all over her body and she had no clothes on - paluru ulja wiya. Her stick went flying out of her hands as she brushed the burning fire off.
